THAT BAD BACK

Do you have a dull, steady ache in the small of the back—sharp, stabbing twinges when stooping or lifting—distressing urinary disorders? For bad back and weakened kidneys Norway residents recommend Doan's Kidney Pills. Read this Norway statement.

Mrs. Mary Gammon, Maple St., says: "I have kept Doan's Kidney Pills in my home for years. I had a dull, heavy ache across the small of my back and often attacks of dizziness came over me. Doan's Kidney Pills which I got at the Kimball Drug Store relieved me of this trouble. I use Doan's Kidney Pills off and on as a kidney tonic and I couldn't wish for anything better to keep my kidneys in a healthy condition." (Statement given June 7, 1916.)

On September 4, 1920, Mrs. Gammon said: "I always have a good word for Doan's Kidney Pills since they cured me of kidney trouble and I am pleased to again give my endorsement. I confirm all I said in my former statement."

Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Gammon had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

IN THE ADIRONDACKS

In the Adirondacks, a river great Proud of its course in New York State; Where trees they bow and sway in the winds; Onward it goes with a leap and a slide; Cutting its way down the mountain side; Thunders on, 'till lost from view; Seeming to say, "I have work to do." It flows through valleys, vale and hill; Its ceaseless voice is never still; Flaking, making a picture grand; Foaming, roaring through the land.

Stretching afar with a circle and wind, With many a bridge left far behind; Gleaming, sparkling, splashing on, Hiding, gliding, all day long. Shadows play along the brink, Pastured herds come down to drink. The wild bird dips his crimson breast, And skims along upon its crest. It murmurs low and plays its pranks; It moves the blossoms along its banks; The Minstrel floats away from shore, And chants his sweet songs o'er and o'er.

Dallying, sallying, far and wide, With rushes growing along the side, Hurrying, scurrying, out of sight, Edging, and whirling, day and night. Many a scene lie at its feet, It laughs at tempests, storms and sleets; It journeys on with mists and main; And turns the wheels to grind the grain.

It never falters on its way, Its task is done day to day; Flowing, calm and peacefully, On and on to eternity.

—Frederick Marshall Davis.

No Coal Keep Comfortable Electrically

Not a pound of anthracite coal is to be had in Norway for "love nor money." But you need not be uncomfortable if you have electricity in your home.

As long as rivers flow to the sea, we shall have electricity to operate electric radiators. An electric radiator will keep a small room comfortably warm; it will take the chill off a large room. It is ideal and self-sufficient for early Fall weather, and in real cold weather it is a splendid helper for a stubborn furnace.

However you use it, the electric radiator helps the fuel situation.

Stand in front of an electric radiator 10 seconds and be convinced.

ANDOVER FAIR
Ideal weather attracted between two and three thousand to the North Oxford County Fair held at Andover, Wednesday and Thursday, Sept. 20-21. Exhibits, baseball, an interesting live stock department and racing made an attractive program.

The midway was not extensive, but patronage was rushing. N. E. Parks of Colebrook, N. H., gave exhibitions flying in his C-6 plane.

The hall display was creditable with L.
C. Akers in charge assisted by Mrs. Roger L. Thurston. Individual entries were conspicuous but the Lone Mountain Grange booth, the prominent feature, and a credit to the committee. Vegetables, fruits, canned goods and food were there in abundance.

E. M. Bailey of Andover displayed a case of interesting minerals and gems and was on the spot to give information or answer questions along that line. The committee staging this display were Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Hall, Mrs.
Cora Akers, Mrs. George Leonard, Mrs.
Louis Moulton, Arthur Stevens and Will Perkins.

Racing proved a drawing card with a strong field of starters in each event.
Straight heats decided every race and good time was made. Dick Cable, driven the whole card on Wednesday in the 2.20

BETTER MOVIES FOR OUR CHILDREN'S SAKE

By Elva Dorr

The afternoon that I attended Griffith's remarkable masterpiece "Way Down East," I was very much disturbed by two children back of me, one a little fellow of four and the other a girl of six or seven. "Oh, oh! I can't see 'em down-ded," sounded right in my ear. "Hush!" said the sister, "It's only a picture." "Oh, look! look!" Run fast man and get her, she will be down-ded. I don't want to see it—the baby boy pitifully hid his face in his sister's neck and began to cry. I turned around and said over my shoulder in a provoked voice, "Can't you keep that child still? He is annoying the people around him." I was selfish. I wanted to see and feel just what was about to happen on the Connecticut River near White River Junction. But the agony in that child's voice reached my mother's heart. The picture was spoiled for me, but perhaps I gained more in another way for it set me to thinking, especially when a little girl, holding tight to her mother's hand, walked up the aisle past me. "Don't cry, dear, it's only a picture and the girl won't die."

At that moment I realized as never before, that right here lay one of the biggest problems for parents and the public in general. Our children's impressions are being moulded by the screen! Children cannot be fed on excitement and thrills at a tender age and not suffer from it. What right have these babies at a Movie House anyway? If we could have fairy tales, like Maeterlinck's "Blue Bird," what a joy for our little ones. Only a very few plays, either screen or legitimate are fit for children. By fit I do not necessarily mean immoral. More often it is a question of taste, judgment, appropriateness.

The cheapness and the accessibility of the motion pictures are responsible for the children's attendance. Of course it's quite an easy way to rid yourself of the little ones for a few hours. I've heard mothers say, when teased to do something or to go somewhere, "Here, take this money, go to the movies, sit still, keep quiet and see the picture twice."

Many of my cases in social service work have been among children who were little nervous wrecks not due to malnutrition, but directly traceable to the cinema. Mothers have told me that often they are awakened in the night by Tommy or Willie standing in the middle of their bed shouting: "Gee, I'll shoot 'em for you mister." One little fellow who was brought up to go to Sunday school awoke in the night and cried: "The cop didn't get him, but God will." Evidently his brain was in a muddle—a mixture of movies and religion.

I want to quote from no less a person than Ellen O'Grady formerly N. Y. City Deputy Police Commissioner: "I know from my own experience that the greater part of juvenile delinquency is due to the evil influence of motion pictures. I could cite you case after case of boys and girls gone wrong because of films. It makes my blood boil. These men are not fighting for their art as they tell you; they are fighting because the market is flooded with filth and they would lose money if they could not show it on the screens."

Children should be provided with a special program. They should not be allowed to see pictures that appeal to us older ones. Why give strong meat to babes? We all would think a parent crazy who let her child of five or seven go to an athletic meet and take part in games that might endanger his life. We would say, he is too small, this game is for grown-ups; surely life's game or the reproduction is for grown-ups. Why in Heaven's name should children be allowed to go and see that which interests and amuses their parents! Surely there must be something wrong with parents or children if both can meet on the same amusement plane.

Movies Are An Amusement for the Adult They cannot be standardized as a child's entertainment. The morals of the movies may not be worse than the daily press yet they do more harm to the young impressionable minds. The cinema is the greatest medium by which impressions can be made on the mind of the child. What is seen is retained to a greater degree than what we read.

If, instead of sending children to movies as harrowing and dramatic as "Way Down East," we took them to educational films, what a constructive education they might get in civic affairs. There is great need of wide spread information in civic, religious and educational themes. Our late war brought forth some astonishing facts—one was the illiteracy of our boys. All told there were five million people who could not read or write. Is that not dangerous to our democracy? The right kind of movies can remedy this lack of stimulating pride and responsibility. The church and the schools might co-operate and have social reconstruction programs. Films of the early heroes, martyrs, scientists, inventions. Films with spiritual themes. I am glad to see that more and more ministers are recognizing the importance and the possibilities of the screen.

Whole System is Benefited by Tanlac

Thousands of frail, nervous people and convalescents everywhere have testified to the remarkable power of Tanlac in bringing back their health, strength and working efficiency. It seems to quickly invigorate the constitution and is a powerful foe of weakness.

Mr. Samuel Holloway, 98 Elm St., Portland, Me., says: "If it had not been for Tanlac, I doubt if I would be here today. I was almost a complete physical wreck and had not eaten any breakfast for a year. I had to quit work and was barely able to drag one foot after the other. I seldom got more than three hours' sleep at night."

"I have gained twenty pounds in weight since taking Tanlac and I feel twenty years younger and am enjoying the best of health."

Pulling at the Fryeburg Fair

Pulling of cattle and horses was a continuous performance for three days. A by-stander remarked it continued for ten days. It was watched by a large crowd who were much interested.

In the free-for-all first day horses, 1100 pounds, purse $50.00, H. F. Lord, Denmark, got first, Everett Goodridge, Fryeburg 2nd and Harry Kimball 3rd.

The longest barn in the state of Maine is in Casco village and measures 303 feet in length. It has thirty windows of sixteen panes of glass on one side; four with sixteen and twenty-seven with four panes on the opposite side; four on each end with sixteen panes, and three cupolas with four shutters each. There is an office and harness room, 27 box stalls and a ground floor for driving or exercising the horses in winter. This barn was built by the late Cyrus C. Mayberry, and has been the home of many trotting horses among which was William Alger, 18 1/4 of a year ago, and Albert Herr, 23 1/4, Montbert and the two year old Aurora of Poteau the Great of the present day. The stock barn and the estate is still owned by the Mayberrys.

Fair Notes

All roads lead to the fair grounds this week. The weather was favorable and the exhibits the best ever if possible.

All the departments were well filled and the attendance was above the average.

The West Oxford Agricultural Society started its 72nd annual exhibition with all bills paid and with many improvements made to the grounds the past season. One hundred rods of new fence has been built and a thousand dollars worth of roofing has been put on the cattle sheds. Improvements have been made in the exhibition hall. Surely the society is prosperous and well managed.

The different departments were under the charge of the following officers:

Grounds—Fred M. Kennerly.

Tickets—E. O. Buzzell.

Trotting Horses—C. E. Cobb.

Exhibition Horses—C. S. Mason.

Stock—George H. Walker.

Pairs—D. T. Shortridge.

Bolling Ground—George H. Coleman.

Hall—James T. Boutwell.

Restaurants—D. E. Cobb.

Admission 50 cents, children 10 cents, autos 50 cents each and carriages 25 cents. Tickets for the grand stand 25 and 35 cents.

Tickets at the big gate were taken by Richard C. Gaffner of Fryeburg and C. F. Ridlon of Fryeburg Center and they were kept busy especially Wednesday forenoon.

It would save time and congestion at the entrance if stands for the sale of tickets were located a few rods away from the gate and on both sides of it. As now arranged it causes much delay in handling the people.

There were three races for Wednesday with purses totaling $550. A game of ball between the Portland Mohawks and the Tamworth Tigers, which was won by the latter with two runs.

With the races the society furnished two events to please and entertain. A running race, four horses from the Ladd Bros. stables of Tilton, N. H., and the race between a sheep and a trotting horse in which the sheep outpaced the horse.

J. H. Hays of Whitefield, N. H., is the owner of both. The sheep is a year old and the stallion with which it runs is 8 years old. Mr. Hays did the training.

Music was furnished by the North Fryeburg band.

Automobile dealers were much in evidence and their exhibits were well attended.

Terrell Gilman & Adams Bros. of Bridgton had a line of Durant cars, Sedan coupe, runabout, with four and six cylinders, also the Star touring car, which they delivered for $503 and "stood back of it."

F. B. Fogg of South Paris, the Hudson agent had three cars here and was talking to interested people all the time.

Geo. Hill of the Norway Buick Co.

had a big display of cars in his line. Sport model to the Mack Trucks including the O. M. C. truck. The prices were on his cars and ranged from $980 to $1,815 delivered.

W. H. Kilgore of Norway was showing the Studebaker and was entertaining visitors with the story of his car.

F. Wilson Walker of Norway was exhibiting the Vello car and the Chevrolet was here on display by a North Conway dealer.

E. Chandler Buzzell is secretary of the society and a busy man for three days at least. Mrs. Buzzell was in the office and assisted. Their son, Francis Gurnsey Buzzell entered the University of Maine at Orono this fall.

C. E. Cobb, Denmark, operates the dining rooms under the grand stand. He has leased it for the past six years.

P. E. Jones and wife of North Fryeburg have had charge for the past three years. Seventy-five cents for dinner is the price. You get full value for your money. Mrs. Jones says over 1200 had dinner on Wednesday.

O. G. Lead of Tilton, N. H., had charge of the running horses. The Ladd Brothers' stables have eight running horses at the fair this fall. Two teams on the circuit and they have raced at some twenty fairs, including the fair at Norway, Cornish, Lewiston, Farmington.

Matched horses, best pair all round work: C. H. Osgood, 1st; C. E. Cobb 2nd and E. L. Webster 3rd.

Penies: C. E. Cobb, Denmark got first. He exhibited three ponies.

Linwood Fogg of Norway, selling agent of the Kohler system of light and power was on the grounds. He furnished electric lights for the tents and a search light for the society. By so doing he was giving a practical demonstration and was getting a return in cash which reduced expenses. He sold an outfit while here.

One noticed that few of the people came in teams to attend the fair. Instead they arrived by auto, jitney and motorcycle, many of the cars bearing tags of other states.

Edward E. Chase, chief of the Lynn fire department was at the fair with his family. He is stopping for a few days on the Chase farm in North Conway, where his brother, Mial W. Chase, dropped dead three weeks ago. The latter was president of the North Shore Ice Deliveries Company and a member of the Massachusetts House from the 14th Essex district. He was a candidate for renomination at the recent primaries and although he had been dead for several days his name appeared on the official ballot.

"The Fryeburg fair has the Greater Lynn fair stopped 40 ways," said Chief Chase.

"Shorty" Cook, with "Bud" Merrill as chauffeur, made the trip in the Cook family flier. "Shorty," who is preparing for an extensive crusade against game, commencing with next Monday, became highly excited when he saw two partridges take wing from the road in front of the machine.

There was a large number of Norway people on the grounds. Among them were Mr. and Mrs. John A. Woodman, Mr. and Mrs. Allie Buck, Charles P. Kimball, Walter L. Hutchins and Fred E. Smith.

The fakers' row was a clean cut proposition and no difference in character than those at some other fairs. "We'll leave here Thursday night for the World fair at North Waterford," was the song of the fakers.

One of the toy balloon merchants on the midway had heart trouble when an inquisitive youngster cut the strings of a dozen bulbs, which went skyward.

The merry-go-round, three horses abreast had all the work they could do. The little girl wonder child who could answer most any question played to crowded houses. The Truman wrestling tent had always a crowd of interesting listeners in front of the ticket stand and numbers went inside.

The fakers dealt in things sold at fairs. There were plenty of them and several the big day, Wednesday, had greatly reduced their stocks in trade by closing time.
